

PRESS RELEASE

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE — EMBARGOED UNTIL YOU STOP LAUGHING

7312.us Unleashes L.A.R.G.E. on an Unsuspecting World: The AI Tool That Writes the Reports Nobody Asked For

Lazy Automated Report Generator Environment Promises to Democratize Corporate Meaninglessness at Scale

INTERNET, March 2026 — 7312.us, a technology company best described as "a guy with a server and too much free time," today announced the general availability of L.A.R.G.E. (Lazy Automated Report Generator Environment), a groundbreaking web application that harnesses the power of artificial intelligence to produce business reports that sound authoritative, look professional, and mean absolutely nothing.

"We identified a critical gap in the market," said the founder, who was unavailable for comment because he was generating a 20-page financial report about his cat's ROI. "Executives have been manually writing meaningless reports for decades. We asked ourselves: why should humans suffer? Claude can hallucinate synergies just as well as any MBA, and it does it in under 30 seconds."

A New Era of Clueless Innovation

L.A.R.G.E. represents a paradigm shift in the field of people who don't know what they're doing building things anyway. Until now, producing a convincing-looking business report required years of corporate experience, a deep vocabulary of buzzwords, and the ability to say "let's take this offline" with a straight face. L.A.R.G.E. eliminates all of these barriers, putting the power of unintelligible executive communication into the hands of literally anyone with a browser.

Key features include:

- Four Report Types: Marketing (buzzwords), Engineering (jargon), Management (both), and Financial (numbers that add up to whatever you need them to).
- Audacity Levels: Choose from Low (mildly delusional), Medium (confidently wrong), or High (full Theranos energy).
- One-Page Enforcement: When selecting the 1-page option, L.A.R.G.E. is fully aware it is writing one page and will note this with appropriate passive-aggression.

- Graphics Support: Upload an image. The AI will pretend it informs the report. It does not.
- Export Options: HTML, PDF, and Word — because nothing says "I mean business" like a document in three formats nobody will read.

Powered by Claude AI, Deployed by Someone Who Figured Out Apache After Three Stack Overflow Visits

L.A.R.G.E. runs on Anthropic's Claude AI, which means the reports are generated by one of the most sophisticated large language models ever created, being asked to write a satirical memo about quarterly synergy alignment. Anthropic has not endorsed this use case. Anthropic is probably fine with it.

"Democratizing AI used to mean giving researchers access to powerful tools," noted one observer who asked not to be named. "Now it means a person who learned Python six months ago can deploy a sarcasm engine to the public internet. We're living in the future, and the future is deeply unserious."

Market Opportunity

Internal analysis — generated by L.A.R.G.E. itself, naturally — projects a total addressable market of "a lot" with a compound annual growth rate of "who knows." The report was four pages, used the word "leverage" eleven times, and concluded with a recommendation to "double down on core competencies." The team found it very convincing.

Availability

L.A.R.G.E. is available immediately at <https://7312.us/large>. It is free to use, subject to the continued goodwill of Anthropic's API credit system and the uptime of a server that also runs WordPress.

Users are advised that by accessing L.A.R.G.E., they agree that any reports generated are satirical, that 7312.us is not responsible for consequences arising from submitting AI-generated content to actual stakeholders, and that they are technically adults who should know better.

About 7312.us

7312.us is a technology presence operated out of what is generously described as a home office. The organization's mission is to build things that are amusing, occasionally useful, and always slightly over-engineered. L.A.R.G.E. is its most significant product launch to date, which says something about either the product or the portfolio, and possibly both.

###

Media Contact:

L.A.R.G.E. PR Department

7312.us

webmaster@7312.us